VISIT TO THE FUTURE HOUSE

Copy by Peter THOMAS

This visit should not have been missed by anyone considering house alterations to make home living more convenient and energy efficient. One must however be nimble fingered to cope with the keyboards, touch screens and switches etc which control the various systems from anywhere in the house, your car or even an Internet terminal. The house will continue functioning as if you were there even if you are km's away on holiday.

Neither need you go out to buy your groceries, shopping is done by touch screen selection via the Internet. Nor need you stay in to receive them there being a through-the-wall refrigeartor and storage unit accessible only to deliveries which have your code.

Outside the house, the lawn is cut and watered, and pathways snow cleared automatically.

These are just a few of the living-in-the-future ideas on test in the future house, many of which are gradually becoming available commercially.

We would like to thank Fam.Steiner, who live in the house, for the conducted tour and Board Member, Joop HUBBELING, for arranging the visit.

IMCZ 6th BURNS NIGHT SUPPER

Maybe not so many people this year but it was as always a memorable affair celebrating the poets birthday.

We are thankful to Bas Veenendaal and John Stuart for the smooth organisation and to the Landhaus for their tireless help in ensuring a successful event.

Master of Ceromonyes	Bas Veenendaal
Selkirk Grace	Mary Kok
Address to the Haggis	Stephen Reilly
The Immortal Memory	John Stuart
Toast to the Lassies	Nicholas Brock
Reply from the Lassies	Janis Tait

The piper, Billy Patrick, is almost a fixture at the IMCZ event having takenpart since the first. For the lucky few Billy dismantled his pipes and explained the function of the various parts.

The raffle for various bottles of nectar and a spare Haggis was extremely popular.
